AMUSEMENTS.

Wildwood-"Chimes of Normandy." A better pleased crowd has not filled Wildwood Park since the popular little summer theater opened than that which heard "The Chimes of Normandy" last night. Withou any desire to "praise up" the performance more than it deserved, one must admit it was the best performance of "The Chimes" heard in Indianapolis since the good old days when Emma Abbott was the rage. This opinion was gathered from several who claimed to have heard "The Chimes" every time it had been given here during the past twelve years. There is something so musical and entertaining about this pretty opera that it seems still destined to be a favorite with the people. Just why the people crowd to hear it after the songs and libretto have become so old and familiar to everybody is one of the things the critic does not understand. But that is no affair of the critic and there is, perhaps, no oc casion for one to understand. It remains undisputed that "The Chimes" still draws. Edward Temple, who took the part of Gaspard last night for the three-hundred-and-twenty-first time, since he began singing in opera, said he didn't understand why the people cling to "The Chimes," but he said he knows that they do and that during his experience with summer amounts. experience with summer amusements the company could do good business with this opera when everything else in the repertory more to do with the success to-night, and in the nights to follow, now that the public has heard her beautiful and powerful voice. The Indianapolis friends of the blonde stranger from far Australia must have done considerable talking about her, for she was instantly recognized in the chic peasant costume when she first appeared on the stage, and blushed and bowed repeatedly before she had a chance to trill a note. Her fresh young face, framed in by long blonde curls falling to her shoulders, was pretty as a highly colored Dutch picture. Some wondered if that young-looking singer was really the finished artist about whom so many flattering notices had been written. was really the finished artist about whom so many flattering notices had been written. There could be no doubt of it when she began her first song. Although surrounded by a number of singers much better than the ordinary, and one who ranks as a prima donna in light opera, Miss Walker's voice very perceptibly outclassed them all. Her perfect phrasing and purity of tone at once charmed those in the audience who were prepared to judge, while the general ognized with greater pleasure that here was "singing that is singing." Any number of flattering remarks were neard, and the Australian singer may take it that she made a hit, the ambition of every rtist on appearing before strangers. In the second act her duet with Charles Shackford resulted in an encore and she responded by singing the Patti waltz song.

The aplause following was so heartily given that the prima donna repeated the song.
The success of "The Chimes" was also Charles Huntington, as the Bailli, and Lee Dougherty, as the notary. The notary's a number of prominent zens and jabs at the Country Club, the bicycle girl, the Artillery boys, the baseball fiends, until people wondered where Mr. Dougherty picked them up. The management of Wildwood was not spared and Major Defrees was seen to blush. The "Mary's Lamb" song, by the Bailli and the notary, was another hit and got three energy Among the local verses was the cores. Among the local verses was, the

But lamble, he said-"Bah!" The principal roles were all well taken ward Temple's Gaspard being particular-ffective. The chorus was better dressed, f anything, than it was in the Mikado, bu onvey this impression. The scenery was very pretty; in fact, it would appear to an outsider that the company has been making an effort to excell in this regard. The new scenery for "The Chimes" was much harder to handle than were the settings for "Mikado," and the waits between the acts were disagreeably long.

"War and Peace" at Lincoln Park. The Innes band will arrive to-day and give the first of its performanes at Lincoln Park to-night. The organization is strong and the "War and Peace" spectacle has been highly praised. The sale of seats is on at the Big Four offices. Innes is one of the greatest bandmasters in the country and caters to the public. "War and Peace" will please the old soldiers, the younger patriots and the musicians as well. With the spectacular and pyrotechnical features he pleases all that come. The patrons of Lincoln Park are to hear eight soloists that rank high in America. The concert which precedes the spectacle will consist of six numbers and Professor Innes has done the city the honor to substitute for one of his pieces a two-step march, by Robert Reck-er, whose home was recently Indianapolis, but who has taken up his work in New York city. The arrangement of the band-stand at the park is well adapted to the purposes of the band, soloists and chorus,

Notes from Wildwood. through to Wildwood without change to-

Moving the 25-cent seats nearer the stage at Wildwood will serve to popularize that section of the big tent. Some one stole the candles out of the Japanese lanterns Sunday and one feature of the Wildwood illumination did not show up last night.

At a meeting of the passenger agents lis yesterday it was decided to give half-fare rates from surrounding towns to parties coming to the city for the sum-mer opera performances. A number of excursions are now being arranged for. "Chimes of Normandy" was too long a performance last night, and the management announces that the curtain will go up promptly at 8:15 o'clock hereafter, according to the bills, so that the crowd may get away before 11 o'clock. Those coming at 8:30 will miss the opening scene.

Lee Dougherty, in his speech to the chorus last night, said something which the girls enjoyed better than the audience. He advised them not to go to the seashore, but to remain in Indianapolis and go bathing in Fall creek. The crowd took it as a great joke, while the girls blushed and turned heir faces to the wall in shame. The fact is that the notary knew the girls all made break for Fall creek after the first performance last week and went in ba-, wading. They have been very discreet about the matter, and the fact that they are nightly breaking a city ordinance has not yet come to the ears of Chief Powell.

Not a Stanwood.

Washington Capital. It is charged in some of the Eastern news-papers, I notice, that Miss Dodge has failed to give the right prominence in her biography of Blaine to the Stanwood family, and this though Miss Dodge herself is connected with the Stanwoods, and has owed her intimacy with the Blaines to that relationship. And the omission is deemed the more strange since the Secretary was very much assisted at various periods in his life, at times, too, when assistance was of es-sential value, by his brother-in-law, Mr. Stanwood, of Boston, and since he seemed constantly to be grateful for this help. It is said that Miss Dodge has failed even to mention in the Blaine biography the name of the most prominent member of the Stanwood family; and it occurs to me (though of course, is a mere suspicion, and per haps ought not to be made public at all) that the apparent indifference which the Blaines showed to Miss Dodge's recent suferings may have been caused by this evination, or perhaps determination at all hazards, to pass over the Stanwoods altogether in her very important work. The departure of the Blaines at what appeared to be the most critical point in Miss Dodge's sickness unquestionably caused much adverse comment in Washington, and some of this criticism has found its way into print. It did seem very strange; yet perhaps we cught not to impugn anybody's motives.

ALLEGED DEATH AND BURIAL OF THOMAS MYERS NOT EXPLAINED.

Elwood Lodge of Foresters Will No Pay the Life Insurance-Howard County Lands on Fire.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. ELWOOD, Ind., July 8.-The special to the Journal from the scene of Myer's death, stating that no evidence of his death can be obtained at Gem, coincides with statements of the committee who visited there and investigated the matter. Dr. Cox's whereabouts at the present time are inknown. When he left here he was supposed to have gone to Gem, but no report of his having arrived there can be learned. Mrs. Cox is in this city with relatives, and the report that she had applied for a divorce is doubtless a mistake, as no such action has been commenced in this county that can be learned of. The insurance committee is divided on the matter. Two members of it are of the opinion that Myers is alive and that the burial was a "fake." As near as can be ascertained they hold to the opinion that Myers was alive when he was put in the coffin, and that this was the reason no undertaker was called to embalm The debut of Ada Palmer Walker in In-dianapolis may have had something to do with last night's success, but it should have the coffin and weights substituted instead of the body, and that these were afterward removed during the night following the interment to make it appear that the grave had been robbed. The other member of the committee holds to a slightly different opinion as to the fate of Myers. The interest in the case is fast increasing in secret society circles. The committee to-night made a majority and a minority report as to the probable fate of Myers. They were agreed on the motive which prompted the affair and on those engaged in the scheme. An interview with members of the co tee separately reveals the fact that nothing that has yet been done renders Cox amen-able to law from a lodge standpoint, and that they can prefer no charge against him in the courts unless he demands the insurance money.

This is one of the most mysterious affairs ever chronicled by the ne ocality. The leading question of the day is "What has become of Thomas Myers?" and in order to fully understand the affair it is necessary to relate the facts and in-cidents leading up to his disappearance and unknown fate. Myers was a nephew of Dr. Thomas A. Cox, of this city, who formerly resided at Greenfield, Ind., and at Clifford, nd., where the burial of Thomas Myers, or speaking, the burial of a coffin to contain his body, occurred. Dr. lox has lived here four years and has praciced with only moderate success. He has peen engaged in several public enterprises and was quite well known. Near him lived A. F. Burnett, a fish dealer, between whom and Dr. Cox a friendship sprang up so that they were much in each other's company. VERY STRANGE CASE.

About three months ago Dr. Cox's nephew, Thomas Myers, came here on a visit to his uncle. Myers was an orphan and had no immediate relatives living. About the time he came here Burnett fell sick and engaged Myers to attend to his fish trade for him, which he did for some time until Burnett recovered and then began casting about for a place to start up a fish market of his own. During his stay in this city he became a member of the Ancient Order of Foresters, of which his uncle was a member, and took out a $3,000 life policy, naming as the beneficiary Dr. T. A. Cox. About the same time he joined the Equitable Aid order and took out $2,750 insurance, the A. O. U. W. and took out $2,000; and the Maccabees and made aplication for a $3,000 policy. In every instance Dr. Cox was named as the beneficiary, it is alleged. Myers did not remain here long enough arterward to pay more than one month's dues, aside from initiation fees, in any of About three weeks ago he left here for ostoffice, where he and Dr. Cox rented a oom and Myers started a fish distributing station. Dr. Cox, in the meantime, remained here the greater part of the time. In a few days after he went there Myers

s alleged to have written a letter to A. F. Burnett, stating he was sick and asking Burnett to get him some medicine of Dr. Cox and come over and nurse him, Burnett did so, and when he got there wrote back to Dr. Cox, stating, it is alleged, that Myers was a very sick man, and he (Cox) had better come and see him. Cox asked two or three of the Foresters to go along, but none seemed disposed to do so until he asked a druggist named Lyttle to go along, and Lyttle assented. When they got to Gem vttle is said to have seen Myers and found him really sick. Cox returned here, saying that Myers was in bad shape and he would go back in a day or two to see him. He went back, and July 1 a letter was received from him, stating that Myers died June 30, and that his remains would be buried at his (Cox's) old home at Clifford, on Monday. The orders here to which Myers belonged were not notified with the exception of the Foresters. LODGES INVESTIGATING.

unction in this matter, and are endeavorng to protect themselves. They believe that Myers is yet alive, and that it is a town of Gem was a little out-of-the-way place where a fish dealer would have starved, and altogether it looks very favorable to the theory held by the lodges, that it was a fake death, and a fake burial carried out with intent to defraud. In a talk with one of the committee of Foresters, W. H. Bingaman, he said: "Of course, I cannot tell you what we found out at Gem, but we are not looking for a dead hat Myers is alive and well." The theory committee is that Cox thought that, as an officer in the Foresters, his word in reference to the death and burial of Myers would not be questioned, and that no investigation would be made. If it is proved that Myers is alive civil action will be taken against Dr. Cox, it is alleged, for filling out the death certificate. It is also rumored that Cox will be expelled from the lodges to which he belongs. One of the most likely theories in connection with the mystery was suggested to-day and is as follows: "If Myers is not dead then the ones who engineered the scheme made it appear so. The coffin was secured and Myers placed in it alive, in order to deceive any one who might be curious. Mrs. was simply deceived if this theory is true The funeral procession started across the country at the dead of night, 3 a. m., and somewhere between Gem and Clifford My-ers was let out of the coffin and the weights to one was admitted to the death chamber. why the funeral party started in the night and went across the country forty-five miles, instead of going by rail, to allow Myers a chance to escape; and it explains why the people who were not in the secret were deceived into thinking Myers dead The effort made to lend color to the theory that medical students robbed the grave wil ot go. The committee is in po facts which controvert any such theory.'

THE SOIL ON FIRE. Handreds of Acres Burned on the Old

Five-Mile Slough. Special to the Indianapolis Journal. KOKOMO, Ind., July 8 .- In Howard township, five miles north of this city, more than a dozen farms are on fire. Extending through that township is a long stretch of low, swampy ground, known as the "fivemile slough," being about a mile wide and the soil nearly six feet deep. In wet seasons the place is a vast swamp, covered with water, and in ordinary seasons the ground is too wet for tillage, or even for pasture. In the unparalleled drouth this year the slough is dry and parched. The soil is an accumulation for years of falling leaves, washings from the higher ground, the partially decayed vegetation forming a deep, boggy, peaty soil, black and sponky. Three weeks ago some boys, in burr brush, ignited the decomposed veget deposit and it has been burning ever si-Hundreds of acres of the deep soil h been consumed, leaving bare and red hardpan. THE PLATE-GLASS TRUST. It Is Completed by Taking in the Diamond Plate.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. ANDERSON, Ind., July 8 .- The organization of the plate-glass combine was practically effected to-day by the filing of the deed for the Diamond plate-glass plant at Elwood, which is regarded as the most complete plant in the country, to the Pittsburg Plate-glass Company, under which name the gigantic trust now formed will be known. The consideration named in the deed of transfer was but $1. The plant is equipped with all modern improvements for the manufacture of plate glass and, was recently assessed at $300,000, exclusive of several thousand acres of valuable gas leases which they own and which is in the very center of the Indiana field. The Elwood plant has held out for several months because the proposed valuation of the plant was too small and the deed filed for record to-day indicates that they have won in the contest. The deed is executed by President L. A. Conger and Secretary W. L. Clause. The Kokomo plant will also be a party of the combine, but the De Pauw plant, at Alexandria, was not in-

ENGLISH COACHES SAY THE AMER-ICAN BOAT CREW ROWS WELL.

Mr. Courtney, However, Is Discouraged-The Great Henley Regarta to Open This Afternoon.

HENLEY ON THAMES, July 8. - Th

Henley regetta begins to-morrow. Cornell, at 3:30 p. m. of that day, will meet the famous Leander Boat Club's crew, probably the strongest on the river. In view of the depressing accounts circulated regarding the health of the Cornell crew, a reporter had a chat with Charles E. Courtney, their coach, when he arrived at the boathouse this morning at 8 o'clock. Courtney looked very glum and said: "I do not know whether the Cornell crew will be able to row to-morrow. The fact is we have two sick men among the crew who ought not to row in their present condition. They are Hager and Fennell. The latter was in high fever yesterday evening. The two men, however, may be all right to-morrow, as I, afflicted in the same way feel right one day and bad the next. But if our boys were fit should feel very confident that there is not a crew on the river equal to them. They have been steadily improving in practice, and make faster time at each trial. In spite of this, I am unwilling to take the responsibility of allowing sick men to strain themselves in a race: If the invalids are not better to-morrow we shall have to put screen and blind provision. He pleaded guilty in Justice Stephan's court and was fined $21. The other saloons obeyed every provision of the new law yesterday. in substitutes or else scratch. I have done everything possible to keep the men in condition, but they have been unable to contend with the climate and the little worries in substitutes or else scratch. I have done tend with the climate and the little worries to which they have been subjected. If had the thing to do again I would request permission to bring twenty-five men here and keep two crews in training." Courtney does not share the suspicion of Mr. C. S. Francis, the trustee of Cornel

University, who accompanied the Cornell crew to England, regarding alleged unfairness in the drawing of lots for the different heats, which resulted in pitting Cornell against the Leander crew. Commenting on the drawing, Courtney remarked: "It is true that the affair was managed different-ly than at home. Here there is one man who draws the names from a hat, and them. But this man was an old Leande Boat Club man of the highest repute, and if he desired to favor his club he would have given them a bye.

Courtney seems to be over anxious about the result. He has been working very hard, and there is reason to believe Cornell's prospects are much better than he imagines. Certainly there was no sign of discouragemen among them when the boys arrived at the boathouse at 10 o'clock. It is true that some of them looked pale, but they were all in the best of spirits, and Fennell and Hager were as lively as any of them. The boys launched their boat shortly after le course. All the other crews practiced, and it was admitted on all sides that none of them approached Corpell's form or appeared to row as easily. The members of the Leander crew have an undenlable hang win in home waters. in each stroke. A number of the English coachers were grouped with Courtney on the river bank while the crew were practicing and one of them said: "Well, Courtney your boys certainly row in the best form, and in better style than any of the crews on the river. We give them four out of six points. Their principal fault, in our mind, is the shortness of their stroke, but their blade work and the use of their nanus the stroke of the Cornell boys is not so long as he would like, and he says it is simply Courtney) wants. On arriving at the starting point after the practice, the Cornell boys paddled back to their boathouse in the best of form.

The Thompson brothers, of the Argonaut Rowing-Club, of Toronto, who are entered for the diamond sculls, and also for the stewards' challenge cup, with their fellow-clubmen, the Munse brothers, did the course singly, and then the Argonaut four went over the full course in easy time E. A over the full course in easy time. E. A.
Thompson, of the Argonauts, discussing the drawing of lots at the town hall here on Saturday last, said: "I do not think Mr.
Francis was wise in the way he has talked to the Cornell crew. Any charge of unfairness in the draw is absurd." Great crowds of people witnessed the inal practice of the crews this evening None of the crews did the full course. As the Cornell crew rowed up stream and passed the town, where dense masses of lined the banks, and in going the bridge they were greeted with hearty cheers and cries of Well rowed." When the crew returned to their quarters after their afternoon spin they looked much brighter. The dry, warm has had a good effect upon them, and ourtney was in much better spirit. Two policemen are guarding the Cornell boathouse to-night. In the morning the crew will paddle in their racing boat to the starting point, and will then take carriage to their training quarters and rest until an hour before the race. They will then don their racing clothes and re-enter their carriages, which will take them to the starting point. Commenting on this arrange-ment, Courtney remarked: "This insures avoidance of the crowds which line every inch of the roadway, and which would ten to excite the boys. Once seated in the boat hey will not notice anything else. Accord ing to present arrangements no substitutes

Lock to Lock, a newspaper which is con sidered an authority on Thames rowing matters, says, to-night, in reviewing the prospects of the racing to-morrow; "Cornell's style is different from ours, but any style is to be commended which applies strength at the right moment, and does so in perfect harmony. In all these essentials, Io. my girl a better man than a penniless the Americans excel. I also believe they have sufficient staming to negotiate this trying course, and label them dangerous.

The Sporting Life's correspondent says Sunday's rest worked wonders, both with the Cornell crew and the Canadians," Noting the fact that the Cornell have shown Grand Challenge class, both in calm and against a head wind, the correspondent preicts that this will be a grand struggle ween Cornell and Leander. As there doe not appear to be more than half a length between the two. Leander should just outstay Cornell.

Prospects of the Cornell Crew. NEW YORK, July 8,-A letter received from an American who is now a Henleyon-Thames, dated recently, would seem to show that the prospects of the Cornell crew are not so bad as some people make city, who was detailed one month ago to out. The writer says that the people at visit the negro colony at Tahuililo, in the Henley think the Cornell crew will not State of Durango, Mexico, and investigate | stand any show, but "they will get beauthe real situation and condition of the ne- tifully fooled. The boys have stood the cligroes who were removed there from Ala- mate very well." Continuing, the writer bama and Georgia last winter, has returned, remarks that Courtney hopes to keep them He said that there were 800 negroes in the in good shape, and that if he does so they colony, walled in and closely guarded. Fully will give a good account of themselves. When the letter was written the Cornel men were receiving a great many invitations to dine with wealthy people and told the crew that there were not over there on a picnic, and that if they were heaten he wanted to be able to say to the people at home that they did their best to win. The writer of the Henley letter says he noticed that the rowing men there were very big and strong, much more so than the Cornell boys, but, he added, the latter will not give the race to the Britishers until the latter cross the line first. He does not fancy the British style of rowing, say ing it is entirely different from anything he has ever seen, although he thinks the Pennsylvania men were trying to row the reach very far forward, and go as far back as it would seem possible for them to without hitting their heads against the man's toes back of them. There is abso lutely no attempt at form, and the slides are let go at the same time as the hands. The only thing he admires about the strok is the bulldog determination with which they pull it through when they get ho of the water. He continues: "The course not a fair one, but they try to make it as near fair as they can. One side has much more current than the other, and it is iong way from being straight, although is made to look straight on the chart."

Food.

The human stomach is a pear-shaped bag into which all food drops at once when swallowed. Three things happen-the blood rushes into the .ubs ance of the stoward (not into its interior) to heat it; thousands of little ducts or pipes pour copiously forth a fluid called the gastric juice; and then the stomach begins a wave-like, churning movement which thoroughly mixes the gaetric juice with the food, and by and by changes the whole into a gray-looking, semi-liquid paste called chyme. This is digestion as it takes place in health. But, look you. If the stomach falls to turnish the gastric juice, or fails to furnish enough of it, the food simply lies in the stomach and turns sour, putrefies, ferments-as it would in a warm, moist air outdoors. This is indigestion, dyspepsia or gastritis. Having no other way of escape, polsons so engendered pass if to the circulation and set up a train of results like these: Headache, foul taste in the mouth, loss of appetite and nausea, furred tongue disordered heart action, nervous weals ess and prostration, chills followed by heat flashes, distress and weight in the chest after eating, fugitive muscular pains, fol-lowed in time by grave local ailments, etc. All this, bear in mind, comes of a more of less complete failure of the stomach to secrete gastric juice.

Having studied this subject for many years, the Shakers of Mount Lebanon (N Y.)-famous as medicinal chemists and herbalists-sought among the plants cultivated by them only for a remedy which should have the distinct and especial effect of stimulating the flow of gastric juice to a normal amount and at the same time the full, natural digestive strength. other so-called remedies for dyspeps a bave this purpose in view, yet it is the abs ly essential thing. Successful in their ef-forts, even beyond their hopes, they have placed their discovery on the market tracer the name of the Shaker Digestive Cordial. Its effects are immediate and radical. Relief is felt at once and a permanent cure soon follows. It is the sure and scientific remedy for indigestion and dyspepsia. Confident in their work, the Shakers offer trial bottles at the nominal price of ten cents. For sale by nearly all druggists.

NEW YORK, July 8 .- Entries for the regatta of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen, to be rowed at Saratoga, July 17 and 18, closed July 3 with Secretary Fred R. Fortmeyer. This is the largest the country. The presence of the St. Paul (Minn.) eight-oared crew, which will meet the Triton eight that broke the record las year, and the unbeaten Bohemian crew of New York, will make the event of sharp interest. On this race Secretary Fortmeyer has been planning for three years.

Finishing the Defender. BRISTOE, R. I., July 8.-The Defender was tied up to-day and men were busy putting on the finishing touches. Several slight changes in the sails are being made and the rigging is being limbered up and the steering gear carefully inspected. Captain Haff said to-day that it would take two or three days to finish the necessary work on the boat and that the Defender would not take another trip until Thursday.
